

The Unmatched Courage of a Soldier. The Ultimate Sacrifice of a Town. The Unparalleled Vision of a Workforce.

Mississippi. A Legendary Force for Freedom.

One Mississippian – Lawrence “Rabbit” Kennedy – who served in the U.S. Army during Vietnam, remains one of the most decorated U.S. soldiers in history.

One small town in Mississippi – D’Lo – sent proportionally more men to serve in World War II than any other town in the country ... which was literally every eligible man in town.

And for over 60 years, one Mississippi workforce – Northrop Grumman Ship Systems – has helped bring freedom to those who seek her elusive grasp the world over.

One man. One town. One workforce. One state.

Mississippi – dedicated to freedom. You better believe it.

MISSISSIPPI... Believe It!™